JEFFERSON CITY, MISSOURI

Subscription, $1.00 Per Year.

F. G. FULMERSON, Business Manager

Thursday, July 10, 1890.

KEEP 'em muzzled, Mr. Reed.

Don't forget to help along the railroad to the Frisco.

The prospects of blocking High street grows with the fleeting hours.

Jefferson must have a connection with the Frisco, and she will have it.

The indications are that Harrison will have to run against Cleveland again.

Vote for men this year. When we say men we mean republicans of course.

Nominus less than a complete republican victory will satisfy the Jefferson City republicans.

If you don't want to know anything, address George Gimblethole Vest, Washington, D. C.

The democratic county committee has called a convention to nominate a county ticket on Aug. 5.

President Harrison is doing very well, in fact that is what is keeping the democrats awake at nights.

The people are too smart to turn the wheel of progress backwards, and hence will make this a very bad year for democrats.

Don't fail to give the new railroad project a lift. A movement is on foot, and you can aid it by putting your shoulder to the wheel.

The census takers have knocked the inflation out of the windy cities, and Mr. Porter should refuse them a recount. A recount means a padded census.

The coming session of the legislature is full of promise and the most promising feature about it is the fact that it will not be controlled by the democrats.

The selection of a good man for senator in this district is one of the things that must be done. Some good man from Maries county can make Mr. Stark considerable trouble.

We understand that the river route is being pushed along as fast as it can be done just at this time, but that is all we want. This city must have a railroad to the south, and nothing less than that will make its future secure.

The friends of Arthur Grimshaw are urging him to make the race for county clerk, and as there is no doubt of his re-election if he consents, the probabilities are that he will make the race.

The democratic party is against everything that is right and just. It is against the soldiers widow—first, they killed the soldier and now they want the widow to go to the poor farm.

The son of every widowed mother who gets a pension should remember that she owes it to the republican party, and that Mr. Vest is doing and has done all in his power to keep it from her. Can you vote to keep Vest in the senate, if so, you are a very strange young man.

As soon as the republican state central committee meets and decides upon a date for the state convention the county committee will meet and fix the date for holding the county convention to select delegates to the senatorial, congressional and state convention.

Vest! George Gimblethole Vest! Is there in Cole county a union soldier or the son of a union soldier who can so far forget the past as to help keep Vest in the senate of the United States? We hope not, and we think not.

Judge E. L. Edwards leaves for Booneville in a few days to hold the July term of the Cooper Circuit court. It is a little hard on the Judge to hold a regular term of court in July, but it does not seem to worry him, in fact, we believe that the Judge has gotten a hold of some receipt that keeps him from growing old with the balance of us.

The democratic party has its feet turned to the west but its face is turned toward the rising sun. It looks eastward and tries to walk westward but fears the fall, for it cannot take its eyes from the east. Poor old demoralized, decrepid, one-eyed, club footed democracy.

INGALLS AND VEST.

It has often been said that Vest is to the democratic party what Ingalls is to republicanism. The ignorance that such a comparison displays needs but the suggestion to be seen. It is as Giant to Lilliputian, but they seem to see it not; an adobe, to a mansion house, but the film on the eye has obscured the democratic vision. The scholar can see, can think, the mossback democracy can do neither. The two men are as unlike, as unequal in intellectual capacity, in powerful philippics, in masterful presentation of thought, in eloquence, in statesmanship, in scholarship, as the most extraordinary when compared with the most ordinary of this human family. It forces upon the mind the recognition of the perile intellect of a party that has grown fossilized with the dead and dying past, when it can blindly comfort itself with the thought that Vest is to them what Ingalls is to the nation. Can man's vision, can his intellectual powers, be so darkened, so blunted, by mere inertness that he for a moment truly and sincerely believes that Vest can rise higher than Ingalls' knees in a comparison of the intellect of the two men. It may be so. It would not be any stranger, perhaps, than the general blindness of a disintegrating party. To a man of ordinary discrimination, one who occasionally thinks for himself, no such mistake could ever be made. Has Vest ever been called upon by any of the great magazines for his views on any question whatever? We think not. Has he ever uttered a word that will live after he is called to his fathers? We can recall nothing. But why prolong an inquiry that is so barren of fruit.

There is one aspect in which he is looked upon as great, and that is as the poodle dog of the Missouri democracy. He barks and they wag their tails. If his statesmanship has ever gotten beyond that it has not been discovered outside of Missouri.

Chairman Filley rose and read a lengthy address.—G. D.

The 300 prominent republicans who attended the committee meeting held in St. Louis on the 8th inst., and who no doubt read the above, will be surprised at the little things that that paper resorts to in its effort to injure Mr. Filley. Everybody present knows that he did not read a lengthy address, but delivered a short, able, extemporaneous speech that was enjoyed and heartily applauded by all present.

Politics are getting awful dull in democratic quarters. Billy Roer has been side-tracked in the race for collector, and Tom Mahan given inside track. Tom is a right good fellow, but this is a bad year for democrats, especially democrats who handle the people's funds, the danger of which a peep at our pyramid will prove:

Peake,
Silcott,
Missouri,
Alabama,
Arkansas,
Kentucky,
Maryland,
Tennessee,
Louisiana,
Mississippi,
$2,400,000.

Congressman Mansur of Chillicothe, speaks words of praise for what will be grand old Missouri, in a late speech in the house. He said: "Missouri stands midway between the snows of the north and the heat of the gulf. Missouri is an empire in itself. She has the richest agricultural land of any in the union, and she has more mineral than any other state. In her lead and in her zinc and in her iron mountains she has innumerable millions. And she has made greater strides than any other state. During the last ten years her progress has been very great—has been greater than any other state in the union. In 1880 the state of Illinois had a greater assessed wealth than Missouri of $220,000,000, but now the assessed wealth of Missouri is $100,000,000 more than the assessed wealth of Illinois. That is a wonderful statement, Mr. chairman, but such are the facts. That is not all. We have two greater and larger cities than any other state west of the Alleghenies—the City of St. Louis and Kansas City. Kansas City jumped into life full-fledged, a new Chicago, a very Behemoth. There is scarcely any knowing what her future may be. And that is not all. They talk about the progress of Kansas. Take from the Iowa line on the north down the Missouri valley, down by the state line between Missouri and Kansas, and I tell this house that in not one instance where the Kansas county joins a Missouri county is the Kansas county superior in wealth, and I say that take them altogether they are fourfold more wealthy than those across the Kansas border."

GRAND OLD PARTY.

The Republican State Committee Call a State Convention for August 28.

And Select Jefferson City as the Place of Meeting.

The republican state central committee met at Bodman's Grove in St. Louis at 10 o'clock a. m. on the 8th inst. for the purpose of fixing a date and place for holding the state convention. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Filley, who delivered an able address that was loudly applauded throughout its delivery.

The chairman had invited a large number of the prominent republicans in the city of St. Louis and from the state at large to be present, and as a result, fully 300 persons attended and enjoyed the oratory and the excellent lunch provided for them.

After attending to some preliminary matters a motion was made to allow each city 10 minutes in which to present its claims for the convention, which was adopted. Mr. Jaynes, committeeman, proposed Sedalia, and Mr. Bothwell presented Sedalia's advantages with its usual ability.

The committeeman from Moberly named his city, and Judge Fagg did his utmost to secure the prize for that city.

George W. Dupee, committeeman at large, placed Jefferson City before the committee, which was seconded by Robyn of Hermann.

Jefferson City's superior advantages were presented by Mr. J. C. Fisher in a telling speech that was loudly and frequently applauded.

Mr. Baldwin of Johnson county, presented the claims of Pertle Springs. The first ballot being called resulted as follows: Jefferson City, 20; Sedalia, 4; Moberly, 4; Pertle Springs, 1. Jefferson City was then chosen unanimously. The date was fixed for Aug. 28, at 10 o'clock a. m.

On motion, the ratio of representation was 1 delegate to every 300, and a fraction over 150 votes cast for E. E. Kimball, which will give 800 delegates. After concluding other minor details, addresses were made by Judge Burton, Emil Pretorius, Mr. Flanagan and others, and amid great good cheer, the committee adjourned at about 4 o'clock to meet at Jefferson City on Aug. 28.

The whisky soaked brain of the Tribune tribe has become so blunted that they are unable to see the line that distinguishes a gentleman from a blackguard.

The glorious Fourth was cool and pleasant. Jefferson City, liberal and open hearted, but a little lag, contributed to Aurora Springs instead of Jefferson City. Nothing like leaving the town when you have a little spare change to spend. It helps the other town, you know.
